Nous sommes déjà habitués, depuis Minkowski, à l'identité $\gamma_1 \gamma_2 \cdots \gamma_n = \gamma_{n+1} \gamma_{n+2} \cdots \gamma_m$ et celles d'espace. L'hypothèse que nous devons faire n'est pas nouvelle, c'est l'hypothèse de recorariats aussi, que nous exprimerons dès lors au moyen d'un système H et E sont discontinus dans l'espace: Mirorseis disperuki.

Christopher Clifton : Sentences

- 1.1 The decision is the case, in that the case is a decision of the case.
 - 1.2 The decision is a case of the decision.
 - 1.3 The decision is the ground for the appearance of its own specific case.
 - 1.4 The case is the decision that allows for the appearance of its case.
 - 1.5 The case and the decision coincide in the emergence of the case.
- 2.1 The stars that would appear to be aligned in its decision are included in the details of the case.
 - 2.2 The details of a case are as innumerable as the features of the world in which and to which the decision has resulted.
 - 2.3 A decision is the ground of the appearance of the world that is the case.
 - 2.4 The case is only precedent to that which would appear to be within it.
 - 2.5 The details coincide with the decision that allows them.
 - 2.6 The case includes a universe to which it has decided.

- 3.1 A decision is a function of the law that it allows to be decided.
 - 3.2 The law is a decision of the law that has allowed for its decision.
 - 3.3 No decision can decide if not the law itself entirely.
 - 3.4 The law is formed by means of the decisions it enables.
 - 3.5 To have come to a decision of the law is of the law itself decided.
 - 3.6 A judge cannot decide, and every judge has been decided.
- 4.1 The law is not in this or that decision of the law, but the decision of the law that is to come.
 - 4.2 That which is the case will be the case until shown void by an alternative decision of the law.
 - 4.3 The decision yet to come is the ideal of an untouchable foundation of the law.
 - 4.4 A decision of the law both voids and validates the law in its becoming (fact or fiction).
 - 4.5 The basis of the law as fact is fiction.
 - 4.6 The ground of law is (void).

- 5.1 That which is named law is in confusion with the void.
 - 5.2 The validity of law is of the void that would invalidate its own determination.
 - 5.3 The fiction of a ground of law that validates itself is an expression of the void that voids all law.
 - 5.4 The void makes void by means of the validity it gives in its decisions.
 - 5.5 The law as it now stands can only stand in the suspension of its void.
 - 5.6 The suspension of the void is not the same as valid law, but the delay of a decision that would validate new law.
- 6.1 The void is without time and without space, but is in every time and place.
 - 6.2 This world is solely grounded in the void that would give ground to worlds to come.
- 7.1 A case may be as endless as a universe, and finite as a wave that meets a shore.
